

FREE LEGAL ADVICE

Adelaide Law School has three free legal advice services. Advice is provided by final year law students closely supervised by a legal practitioner. We can help with legal advice, research, case preparation, letters and forms, negotiation, and court documents. We don't represent people in courts or tribunals, but we can provide ongoing case support and assistance to help people to represent themselves. We are happy to involve community workers if clients agree. Please contact one of the services below, or go to <http://www.law.adelaide.edu.au/connect/free-legal-clinics/>

Our services are not means tested. If we cannot help, we may be able to find another legal service or pro bono lawyer who can.
