Adelaide Law School -
The final year curriculum

I am pleased to announce the final instalment in our focus on the Adelaide Law Degree - the final year curriculum. At this seminar the Course coordinators responsible for final year compulsory courses will make brief presentations about their courses, including the teaching methodology, coverage of legal material and assessment.

Please join us as our colleagues introduce us to:

- the goals, philosophy and approach of their courses;
- the substantive material covered;
- the teaching methodology employed;
- the assessment structure;
- particular skills which are taught and assessed;
- how they coordinate with other courses in the degree;
- any comparative or International elements; and
- particular problems which have been encountered in the course and how they have been dealt with.

This seminar completes a series that began with a consideration of the first year programme and then focused on the heart of the law degree.

Speakers: John Williams (Constitutional Law), Judith Bannister (Administrative Law), Margaret Castles (Dispute Resolution and Ethics), Anne Hewitt and David Caruso (Evidence and Proof)

Venue: Room 314 Ligertwood Building
